Ringold Lady Dora Garners Extra Star

First Sow Ever To Raise Nine Champion Litters

America's champion production sow, the most prolific purebred sow in the country, has added still another star to her crown.

One hundred and five pigs raised to weening age is the remarkable new record of this queen of the hog world, the first and only sow of any breed to raise nine production star litters.

To qualify for production registry, conducted by the purebreed associations, a sow must raise a litter of at least 8 pigs to a minimum weight of 320 pounds within 56 days of birth. The pigs must be approved breed type, free from fault or defect, and at least half of them must be eligible for registration. The sow gains a star in her breed production registry books each time she repeats the performance.

The champion, Ringold Lady Dora, No. 753,056, a Hampshire owned by Meadowlark Farms, Inc. of Sullivan, Indiana, has repeated that performance nine times. Her first qualifying litter was farrowed September 6, 1944. Since then she has farrowed and raised spring and fall litters without a single interruption, and has raised an average of 9.5 pigs per litter. She has farrowed a total of 129 pigs and has raised 105 of them herself.

Queen of the hog world. Ringold Lady Dora, first and only sow to raise nine litters to qualify for breed production registry honors, is shown accompanied by latest litter which weighed 369 pounds at the 56-day weaning date.

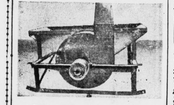
Her ninth star litter, farrowed this past fall, consisted of 10 pigs, nine of them eligible for registration. They had a litter weight of 369 pounds at the 56-day weaning age.

During that period her breeding and feeding was watched carefully. She was fed a ration consisting of corn, oats, a pelletized dairy product, some meat scrap or tankage, a little bran, and alfalfa pasture or alfalfa meal prior to each farrowing.

Grain-Blower



This grain blower, made on an Illinois farm, is constructed from scrap 14-gauge steel for the case and 1-½ angle iron for the frame. It is all arc welded. Grain is fed into the blower by an augur feed.

New Pig-Feeding System Paying Off for Farmers

A pig-feeding device which might be adopted profitably by many swine raisers has been developed in northeastern California.

The "pig strainer," as it is popularly known, was invented by Jess Steiner who lives in Modoc county near Cedarville.

A new kind of creep, the "strainer" sorts pigs out by size at feeding time.

Here's how it came about:

Steiner purchased buttermilk from a creamery at Alturas which he feeds as part of the ration to his hogs. He figured out that it was necessary to feed the pigs according to size, since the small animals had difficulty in getting their fair share of feed alongside the larger hogs.

Therefore, he arranged his pigs at the trough where the buttermilk and concentrates are fed in such a way that, by using creeps, the hogs naturally arranged themselves according to size.

Tree Roots Troublesome When Invading Sewers

Tree roots mean trouble when they grow into sewers. Costly digging to free clogged drains can be avoided by a simple practice. George Adamson, of the Michigan state agricultural college, recommends use of copper sulfate or blue vitriol in freeing sewers of tree roots that may be causing stoppages.

These moderately fine crystals dissolve easily.

DEMONSTRATE FARM GAME PRODUCTION IN ORANGE

Extensive plantings have been made on the Hawfield tract of 2764 acres in Orange County which is designed as the capstone of the system of demonstration areas through out the state for the production of farm game, such as quail and rabbits, through habitat improvement. There are a few turkeys and some deer on the property.

Through the use of bulldozers, approximately 600 acres have been opened up for agricultural use and extensive wheatfields were planted last fall. Principal objective is to show that an ordinary farm, continuing in agricultural productivity can be made to produce greatly increased populations of upland game by the simple process of providing more food and cover.
